Reports Results in Treating Alcoholics As Sick Persons

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 23—Good results from hospital treatment of alcoholics as sick persons were reported today at the Ohio Conference on Alcoholism.

In a prepared speech, Dr. L. C. French of Knickerbocker hospital, New York City, gave results of an experiment launched three years ago with the help of Alcoholics Anonymous.

The patients were selected and sponsored by Alcoholics Anonymous, Dr. French said, and offered medical and psychiatric service.

"More than 3,000 patients have been admitted to this service in three years," Dr. French said. "The results are most encouraging. More than 60 per cent of the Knickerbocker 'garduates' are now members of Alcoholics Anonymous, busily engaged in lending a helping hand to those who need their assistance."

Two Ohio members of Alcoholics Anonymous told the conference how the lay organization for treatment of alcoholics had enabled them to rebuild their lives.

Watch First Drink

"They taught me," said a Columbus attorney in a prepared talk, "that the first drink was the one that I had to watch, because if I took one drink it would set up a physical craving over which I would have no control; that I was a sick person and was what was known as an alcoholic; that my body was allerdgic to alcohol; and that at no time in my life could I ever touch alcohol with any safety.

"They taught me to rely on God, as I understood Him. They taught me to take and continue to take a personal inventory, searching out my defects of character and trying to do something about them."

A Canton AA member said, "A non-alcoholic can hardly realize an alcoholic wants to quit drinking. This fact, of and in itself, is the best evidence that alcoholism is a disease."

Dr. Bryyan Bird of Western Reserve medical school, Cleveland, in a prepared speech described "the dangers that man tries to escape from through the use of alcohol."

"These dangers are not external dangers, they are internal dangers," he said. "Man is afraid of the dangerous impulses that arise within himself."

The first state-sponsored conference on problem drinkers closes tonight with a discussion of "Alcoholism and Public Opinion."

Youngstown Plan Wins High Praise

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 23—The Youngstown plan of dealing with the problem of alcoholism won high praise today from a nationally known authority here to address the Ohio conference on problem drinkers.

"Youngstown had made an experiment and it seems to be a most successful experiment," said Mrs. Marty Mann, New York, executive director of the National Committee for Education on Alcoholism.

She made the statement in a panel discussion yesterday afternoon. Youngstown, she said, had the only Ohio affiliate of the national committee.

A report on the Youngstown Committee on Education for Alcoholism came from Neil Kennedy, executive director at Youngstown.

ITALY REJECTS YUGOSLAVIA'S TRADE OFFER

Refuse Slavs' Offer To Swap Trieste for Italian City of Gorizia.

By The Associated Press

ROME, March 23—A foreign ministry spokesman said today Italy has flatly rejected Yugoslavia's offer to swap Trieste for the Italian city of Gorizia.

The western allies proposed the return of the free territory of Trieste to Italy last Saturday. Yugoslavia countered yesterday with an offer to relinquish her claims on Trieste if Italy will give up Gorizia to the north.

The spokesman said:

"It is clear that Italy cannot accept the separation of a part of Italian flesh bartered for another part of Italian flesh."

The Italian answer came only a few hours after great throngs roaring "Viva Trieste" welcomed Premier Alcide De Gasperi and Foreign Minister Count Carlo Sforza back to Rome.

There was pandemonium at the station as Romans, for the first time, bellowed out their satisfaction with the western allies' proposal to return the free territory to Italy. De Gaspert and Sforza were in Turin Saturday when French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault first announced the idea.

Trieste's Future Uncertain

Amid continued cries of "Viva Trisete Italiana," "Viva De Gasperi" and "Viva Sforza," De Gasperi told the crowd it was too early to make any definite forecast on the future of Trisete, where Italian and Yugo-Slav border patrons exchanged shots yesterday.

"We do not know yet what will come," he said. "We must still wait. We must have tenacious patience. Nothing that happened was improvised or occurred without effort. And this effort was above party lines."

Sforza also spoke, but the shouting of the crowd virtually drowned out his words.

Tension was high over an exchange of shots between Yugoslav and Italian border patrols in the Trieste area.

U.S. Turns Down Tito's Trieste "Trade" Offer

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 23—American officials turned a cold shoulder today on Yugoslav's offer to "trade" Trieste for the nearby Italian city of Gorizia.

Diplomatic authorities pointed out that the free territory of Trisete does not belong to Yugoslavia and therefore is not hers to put up for bargaining.

Thus officials made plain that while the western powers are alert to what the Soviet Union and Italy have to say about the disputed area, they are unlikely to pay much attenion to the opinions of Marshal Tito's regime.

Council Approves Bus Route Changes April 1

A new bus schedule including alterations in routes north of Center street will be placed in effect April 1 by the Marion Rapid Transit Co.

The report of the utilities committee of city council approving the change in routes was accepted by council last night. Two council members opposed the new schedule set up. Voting against accepting the committee report were James C. Jenkins, Second ward, and Herman M. Miller, Fifth ward.

The new schedule will be inaugurated on a 30-day triel basis.

The present loop serving the Vets Housing Project will be included in an altered North East Loop. The Silver and Lee street loop will be shortened. A new North Main street loop will be added, according to the routing approved by the council utilities committee.

Major change will be in the North East Loop which has been extended into the section west of north Main street to supplant the route serving the Vets housing project.

The new Northeast route will be as follows: from the the courthouse north on Main street to George street, west on George and Silver streets to Oak street, north on Oak to Fairground, east on Fairground to Greenwood, South on Greenwood to George street, west on George to State street and south on State to the courthouse.

Schedule for this route will start at 5:20 a. m. with service every 20 minutes until 11:40 p. m.

New Route

The new Silver and Lee street route is as follows: from the courthouse west on Center street to Oak street, north on Oak street to Silver street, west on Silver street to Thompson street, north on Thompson to Dennison avenue, west on Dennison to Lee street, south on Lee to Silver, east on Silver to Avondale, north on Avondale to Blake, west on Blake to Toledo, south on Toledo to Silver, east on Silver and George streets to State street and south on State to the courthouse.

Dropped from the route is the section running north on Leader street to Joseph street, east on Joseph to Mary street, north on Mary to Fairground street, east on Fairground to Oak street and south on Oak street to Silver street.

Schedule for the new route will be service every 30 minutes starting at 6 a. m. and continuing until 11:30 p. m.

The new loop to be known as the North Main street loop, will run from the courthouse north on Main street to Hecker street, east on Hecker to State street, south on State to Fairground street, west on Fairground to Main street and back to the courthouse.

Reason for New Loop

The loop was largely made necessary by the change in location of the Greyhound bus terminal, from State street to North Main street, utilities committee chairman Clarence Sanden, Sixth ward, said.

Service on this route will be every 30 minutes from 6:10 a. m. until 11:40 p. m.

In addition the company will revert to prewar time schedules on Sundays starting April 1. New schedule is as follows:

Center and Davids—20 minute service from 6 a. m. until 11:20 p. m.; South Loop—30 minute service, 6 a. m. until 11:30 p. m.; Silver street—6:10 a. m. until 11:10 p. m. hourly with late bus at 11:40 p. m.; North Main loop—30 minute service, 6:15 a. m. until 11:15 p. m. and North Loop—20 minute service, 6 a. m. to 11:20 p. m.

Time changes effective on the Center and Davids street run during the week include: Run 1-A, leaves Oakland Heights at 5:30 a. m.; 2-A, westbound from transfer at 5:20 a. m.; 3-A, leaves transfer eastbound at 5:30 a. m. and run 4-A, leaves transfer westbound at 5:35 a. m.

Legislation was approved by council authorizing expenditure of $10,000 in a highway improvement program for a section of route 95 within the city. The section runs from the postoffice east to the city line, a distance of 1.42 miles.

To Resurface Street

The job will consist of bituminous resurfacing of this section. Total cost of the project was estimated by Mayor Harry L. Dowler to be aproximately $25,000 with the balance to be financed by the state highway department in a matching funds program. The job will be similar to that on Main street last year, the mayor said.

Under the agreement with the state, parking will be permitted on the North side of Mt. Vernon avenue only, east to the point where the curb ends, near Reed avenue. No parking from that point east to the city line. Parallel parking will be permitted on East Church street from South State street to Vine street.

Other legislation approved: ordinance authorizing payment of a claim of $19.55 to Irvin A. Millisor who drove his car into

CHARGES "LEAK" LED TO BIG MARKET COUP

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 23—Rep. Andresen (R-Minn) said today highly secret information "leaked" from the agriculture department last September and as a result certain persons "made tremendous sums of money" speculating in fats and oils.

Andresen made the statement when a house committee opened hearings on speculation. He said the committee, which he heads, would develop the story.

George A. Parks, an official of the department of agriculture's fats and oils division, was in the witness chair. He testified there was a "leak" of information shortly before the department made a public announcement September 10 of a huge increase in the allocation of fats and oils for export.

Eighth District Democratic Chairmen Promise To Back Lausche in Marion Meeting

By SCOTT McMURRAY

Democratic county executive and central committee chairmen of the six-county eighth congressional district yesterday afternoon unanimously pledged their personal support to the candidacy of former Governor Frank J. Lausche, now seeking the Democratic nomination for reelection.

The announcement of the endorsement was made at the opening of a meeting of 75 Democrats from the eighth district called by Edward J. Neidig of Marion, Lausche supporter, at Parlor B in Hotel Harding. The heavy response of county chairmen and their committeemen caught the sponsor by surprise and the meeting had to be moved into the hotel ballroom.

Mr. Lausche, defeated two years ago by present Republican governor, Thomas J. Herbert, is contesting for the Democratic nomination with former Cleveland Mayor Ray T. Miller. Mr. Lausche served one term as governor.

Mr. Lausche was introduced by Marion County Chairman James F. Lauer of Prospect. The candidate thanked the county chairmen for their endorsement and then launched into his address.

"There has been an effort in various parts of the state to create the artificial impression that county chairmen in those areas were opposed to my candidacy. I did not want to run for this office. From the point of view of my personal happiness and economic security I would be far better off not seeking reelection. But circumstances in this state at the present time impell me to run again for the governor's office.

"The American system of government has always called for the selection of a candidate by nomination through the county organizations. I respect those county chairmen who give so freely of their time to help democracy work. The big city bosses, who can be counted on the fingers of one hand, are not going to place me within a straightjacket if I am governor. There will be no dictation by these "bosses" to the county chairmen if I am elected.

Will Bear Responsibility

"I owe a responsibility to the people of the state and I will not abdicate that responsibility to

Asks Truman's Withdrawal

Sen. Hill, Former Backer of President, Changes Stand.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 23 — Senator Hill (D-Ala) called today for President Truman's withdrawal from the Democratic presidential race. But Senator Hatch (D-NM) said the President will not quit.

Hatch told a reported he has it from Mr. Truman himself that the President will "fight through to the end" to whatever political fate awaits him.

Hill had announced previously his support of Mr. Truman for the party nomination. Today he withdrew his indorcement in the face of mounting Dixie resentment against the President's civil rights program. Hill said in a statement:

"The situation in Alabama and the south today makes it clear that there cannot be Democratic party unity with President Truman as the nominee of the party."

The revolt against the President spread northward, too.

Three Brooklyn Democratic leaders in districts with heavy Jewish populations announced they will not support the President for the nomination.

Despite these evidences of hostility, Hatch said there is no intention on the part of the President to step aside at the last moment for another Democratic nominee.

"You can say for me—and I have it directly from the President himself—that Harry Truman will fight through to the end," Hatch said.

ACCIDENT VICTIMS SHOW IMPROVEMENT

Rubins, Most Seriously Hurt, Slightly Better.

The four injured victims of the automobile accident Sunday which occurred near Kenton and in which two Marion boys were killed were reported to be "slightly improved" today by officials of the two hospitals in which they are recovering.

Jack P. Rubins of 941 South Prospect street, the more seriously injured of the four, who is in San Antonio hospital in Kenton, is reported to be "still not completely out of danger." According to the hospital attendants, he is conscious at intervals and lucid when conscious. Rubins' condition yesterday was critical.

The three other boys, Charles Frederick Ulrich of 806 Delaware avenue, Forrest Glen Massie of 293 Cheney avenue, and Warren Jay Meister of 140 Curtis court, are in City hospital here. Ulrich's condition today is reported to be "fair," while Massie and Meister are "fairly good," according to hospital attendants.

The accident in which Charles Willis Pace of 716 South Prospect street and Richard Arden Eckert of 693 Windsor street lost their lives, occurred Sunday afternoon when the car in which they were riding struck a concrete bridge located six miles east of Kenton on route 30-6.

COMMITTEE SAYS PLAN IS "GROTESQUE"

Declares Proposal an Aid to Operators Who Dishonored Their Contract.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 23—The United Mine Workers today flatly rejected a government proposal for ending the nine-day-old soft coal strike.

The rejection was made in a letter to Cyrus S. Ching, federal conciliation chief, by the three-man UMW committee which received the government offer yesterday.

John L. Lewis, UMW president, did not sign the rejection personally.

Ching promptly went to the White House to report the union action.

Under the Taft-Hartley law, President Truman is empowered to set up a board of inquiry. After the board reports, the attorney general could ask for the injunction.

The committee termed the government proposal "grotesque."

Ching's proposal, which was accepted "reluctantly" by the nine operators yesterday, called for creation of a fact-finding board to investigate the dispute over miners' pensions that touched off the walkouts.

Would Return Miners

However, Lewis would have to send the miners back to work before the plan would go into effect.

The UMW committee advised Ching it felt the proposal was made to "aid the coal operators, who have dishonored their (work) agreement and to further defraud the beneficiaries of the welfare fund."

Therefore, they said, they could not recommend its acceptance by the mine workers.

The welfare fund to which the committee referred was set up in the work contract signed by Lewis and the operators last year.

Lewis wanted to use the fund to pay the miners a $100-a-month pension. The operators balked at his plan, saying the union chief wanted to give pensions to miners who were not entitled to them.

"Dishonored" Contract

Lewis charged the operators by their stand had "dishonored" the contract.

With that apparently in mind, the UMW committee told Ching today:

"There is only one issue: i.e, shall the existing agreement be honored?"

The letter went to Ching, less than an hour before a noon deadline set by the conciliation chief.

Anticipated Rejection

It was signed by UMW Secretary-Treasurer John Owens, Welfare Collection Officer John T. Jones, and District 27 President W. A. Boyle of Montana.

Ching had told reporters after the offer was made that a formal rejection by the UMW would force him to turn the dispute over to President Truman.

That would open up the emergency steps available to the President under the Taft-Hartley act. That law provides first for appointment of a board of inquiry, which Mr. Truman could announce today. After the board makes its study, a matter of a week or 10 days, a court injunction could be sought by Attorney General Clark to halt the strike. A heavy fine could be imposed on Lewis and his United Mine Workers union if they did not obey the court order.

Hartley Says He'll Act Against Lewis

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 23—Rep. Fred A. Hartley, Jr., (R-NJ) says he will move against John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, under provisions of the Sherman anti-trust act.

Hartley said yesterday the UMW, which has staged a work stoppage, is a monopoly "in excess of anything visioned by industry."

Speaking at a forum luncheon of the Columbia university club, Hartley said the Taft-Hartley law, of which he was co-author, "may be inadequate to curb John L. Lewis."

"We are going to find," Hartley said, "that in some of its provisions the act is inadequate and not the drastic anti-labor legislation claimed by some union leaders."

Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK—WHATEVER happened to "Bazooka Mouth," the U. S. Army's only native-born Calypso singer?

The "mouth" is Maxie Zera, a stocky former New York university football star with a voice like a bull caught on a barbed wire fence.

During the war Maxie, who worked up from enlisted man to captain, sang the glory of the American First infantry division. He did it in the rhythms of Trinidad Calypso singers, improvising the rhymes as he went along.

Hal Boyle

Nervous Germans, hearing these strange sounds shuddering through the night, sometimes gave up in terror. They had the idea a new American secret weapon was about to be turned on them.

In those days "Bazooka Mouth," who was born in the Bronx, planned when the war was over to open a big bar here and name it after the division's insignia—"the red one." He was going to provide the entertainment himself.

I ran into Maxie the other day and asked him about the saloon.

"It took too much capital to start one," Maxie said. "I went into the chewing gum business instead."

Zera is general manager now of the Sterling Mint Co., which markets gum through the south.

"The gum industry has just got some good news," Maxie confided. "We've finally developed a gum that won't stick to false teeth.

"THAT'S ALWAYS BEEN one of the big problems. You know how many people in this country wear dentures? Millions! Now they can chew gum just like everybody else. It's a big step forward for us."

One of the penalties of being in the gum business is that your friends are always suggesting brilliant new ways to peddle gum.

"One wants me to put out gum with vitamins in it and call it vitachew," said Maxie. "Others think you should have cherry, strawberry or pineapple gum.

"They don't realize it is difficult to develop a flavor that will stay in gum for 10 minutes. You have to do that. We've found out most people chew a piece of gum that long. All except here. The pace here is so fast that stenographers average 20 minutes. They forget to refuel."

Maxie has turned down a suggestion that he manufacture a gum containing caffeine to keep awake drivers who have a habit of falling asleep at the wheel.

"WE COULD CALL IT 'safe-drive' gum," he mused, "but I don't know how big the market would be. Right now I'm concentrating on a coffee gum.

"Why should you waste time drinking hot coffee in the morning? My idea is to 'chew your cup of coffee.' The trouble is so far I haven't been able to develop a coffee flavor that will last."

Maxie still is ambitious to return to the music world. He would like to get a radio network job singing news announcements in Calypso.

"Even financial and market page news," he said," that would soothe the bulls and bears. The only danger is that I have a tendency to editorialize. Sometimes you have to editorialize to get the right rhyme.

"But I can't take a chance now. I'm stuck with the gum business. The pay is more regular."

MEANWHILE MAXIE is writing tunes and keeping the old bazooka mouth in tune by singing a Calypso history of the First division at reunions. He can sing extemporaneously for two hours without a halt. "I've heard him—and it's different every time.

Maxie married soon after leaving the service. He hopes some day—"If people will just stop this crazy talk of another war"—that he will have a son to carry on his name.

"If I don't," he grinned, "a long line of Zeras is going to come to an end."

DENTAL STUDY CLUB HEARS DR. WAGNER

Speaks on Relation of Dentist to Community.

Members of the Dental Study club met for dinner and a program last night at Hotel Harding. Dr. Robert Marquart of Bucyrus was welcomed as a new member. Dr. A. J. Wagner was the speaker for the meeting and during a business session the group voted unanimous support to the forthcoming Marion county drive for the prevention and cure of cancer.

Dr. Wagner spoke on "The Relationship of the Dentist to His Community." The community, he said, expects an honest and efficient service, expects the dentist to keep up with the advancement of his profession and to participate in civic programs. The dentist in return, he said, expects the right to a decent living, freedom of religious belief, recreational facilities and proper schooling for his children.

The progress of a town, Dr. Wagner said, depends on the people in the town. You can not expect other people to respect your town if you are constantly finding fault and refuse to participate in the programs that will improve conditions in your town.

The next meeting will be April 19 at the Y. M. C. A. and will be in charge of Dr. V. C. Kissell. There will be an important lecture with motion pictures the committee announces.

CHRIST in You, THE HOPE of Glory

"WHITHER BOUND?"

Mark 14:42. "Arise and let us be going."

THESE challenging words were spoken by Jesus to His drowsy disciples in the Garden of Gethsemane just after He had emerged from the throes of one soul crisis and as He confronted another. They were quite willing to be aroused from their lethargy but they were at a loss to know whither they were bound at that midnight hour. Little did they realize that a mob was forming at the entrance to the garden to arrest their Lord and take Him away to be tried and crucified, but Jesus knew.

Within those gates He had found peace and quietness, companionship with His disciples and fellowship with His Father. Beyond them He would face a mob in a belligerent mood. There would follow long hours of gruelling testimony from false witnesses. He would be subjected to persecution and indignities which would fill his soul with revulsion. Finally he would carry a rugged cross up Golgotha's hill and stagger beneath its heavy load. On that cross He would bleed and die for the sins of all mankind. Yet with resolute purpose He would arise and go to face it for on that 'cross He was to become the Saviour.

Evangelist Sings At Calvary Church Revival

At the revival service of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church Monday night, Rev. W. B. Smith, pastor of the Rural Salem Evangelical United Brethren church, and Luther Landes offered prayer. Special music was a solo by the evangelist, Rev. W. L. Mullet of Walhonding, and a quartet composed of Elmer Harruff, Leroy Stull, Raymond Feaver and Orus Wetzel. Tonight, Mrs. A. L. Wood and Mrs. Irwin Jobe will present special music.

Host and hostesses for tonight are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Feaver, Mrs. Herman Greenbaum and Miss Ruth Zachman. There will be Bible study at the church tomorrow at 10 a. m. especially for young people who are urged to attend, it was stated. As part of his Monday night message Rev. Mullet said, "When we turn away from the Holy Spirit we turn to every other kind of spirit. We are living in a day where there is a lot of false teaching. Calvary is a reality. Today we can draw nigh unto Christ and worship Him in spirit and truth. How deep is your Christian profession? How much have you got to share with others? There is a two-fold fellowship spoken of, fellowship with the family of God, and a fellowship with God Himself."

Bearing of Italian Election On Possible Revolt Traced

Prospects that the struggle between communists and democratic forces in Italy will be settled by violence no matter what happens in the climatic April elections are analyzed in the following article. Michael Chinigo, the writer, is Rome manager for International News Service and a veteran observer of Italian affairs.

By MICHAEL CHINIGO

ROME, March 23—Will Italy's communists revolt before the elections? Will they revolt after the elections? Will they revolt at all?

The three questions are plaguing Italian thinking and making of fear a double-edged weapon which will work for as well as against the red wave.

In the April 18 elections each adult Italian will have to make a decision as important as the one Mussolini made for all Italians when he chose between Hitler and the Allies.

The fact Mussolini was hanged for making the wrong decision weighs heavily in worried Italian minds today. Not one would make the wrong choice and risk paying the extreme penalty.

Leftists Confident

The difficulty in choosing lies in the fact that the outcome of the elections is still in doubt and all the three questions regarding communist strategy are the realm of conjecture.

Tactics so far seem to indicate that Italy's extreme left, and the communist "brains" behind it, are confident of a favorable response at the polls.

Early last fall the odds were heavily in favor of an armed coup, ultra-extremists within the Communist party, led by the "Garibaldi" partisans brigades Luigo Longo, almost had their moment.

Plans for a quick stroke were drafted and dispatched to regional "commanders." Memorandums with slight operative modifications followed. But both fell into police hands.

Communist Palmiro Togliatti and his friends are confident of victory at the polls. Only the certainty that chances of victory are definitely compromised might lead him to revert to an armed uprising before April 18.

Factors of Influence

The likelihood is remote, unless international forces come into play.

His so-called "people's front" has been holding the propaganda initiative since the opening of the election campaign and all other parties have been on the defensive.

It is to be expected that communist revolution, if it comes at all, will come after the April elections and will be determined by these important factors:

1. The status of relations between Moscow and Washington—between the East and West.

2. The failure of the "front" to force the formation of a coalition government in which it receives such key ministerial posts as the ministries of interior, war and justice.

3. The conditions under which Marshall plan aid will be made available to Italy.

Premier Stands Firm

Leaders of the right, center and left, admit that any internal blowup in Italy will be "of major proportions." Each faction is reticent to fire the first shot and face the inevitable consequences.

It is to be expected that, coming in second-best in the elections, the "people's front" will strive to obtain participation in a coalition government and to exploit advantages deriving therefrom for further "action from within" as in Cechoslovakia.

But Premier De Gasperi already has gone on record that he will not take the communists into the government either as representatives of hammer-and-sickle forces or under the guise of the "front."

Side Arms In Ike's Cap and Gown?

The Custom Tailors Guild has named General Eisenhower "the nation's best-dressed man.

On the theory, maybe, that it's so refreshing to find a man with his hat on his head instead of in the ring?

The award comes as no surprise to former servicemen. Ike was in the Army long enough; he ought to know Right Dress when he sees it.

Of course, the answer may be merely that, Eisenhower having been out of uniform only a couple of weeks, everything he's got is new.

Incidentally, the way things look just now, Ike may shortly place an ad in the paper: For Sale, Complete Civilian Wardrobe, worn but briefly.

Yes sir, barring a big change in international trends, the predominant spring color is likely to be khaki.

Four Auto Accidents Reported Over Weekend

A car owned by Fred Davis of 212 Sharp street, parked at 812 Bellefontaine avenue at 12:40 p. m. Saturday was damaged when struck by an unidentified motorist who left the scene.

BUILDS DE LUXE BOMB SHELTER. Today's comforts and tomorrow's dangers were carefully considered by Clarence Booth, 54, Lakewood, N. J. inventor, when he created what he believes to be an atom bomb-proof shelter. His unique design calls for a finished residence that has one floor above the earth and on floor beneath it. In the above picture he is shown at the entrance of a tunnel that leads to the dwelling at upper right. Thus, in peaceful times, he can occupy the top half of his domicile. If atomic war threatens, he can go underground.

Rep. McGregor Urges Army "Living Wage"

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 23—The Army and Navy can get all the men they need by paying a "living wage" to volunteers, Rep. McGregor (R-Ohio) told the house today.

He said by a living wage he means money enough to compare with what the men can earn in civilian life.

Conditions today, he said, are like before Pearl Harbor. He urged that America begin immediately to regain its place as the "strongest nation in the world."

"We need an army of professionals," McGregor added, "who are especially trained in the techniques of modern defense."

He also urged a powerful air force, stockpiling critical materials, research in atomic energy and other fields, and cutbacks in non-military government expenses.

Even Bigger Than Tax Reduction

DURING last year's session of congress President Truman misused his veto power twice to kill bills revising taxes. Both houses of congress had approved tax bills by overwhelming majorities. It was the first time a chief executive ever had interfered in a field traditionally reserved to congress.

Mr. Truman now has a chance to redeem himself. A new tax-revision bill has been sent to his desk. The house of representatives has passed it by a vote of 297 to 120. The senate has passed it by a vote of 78 to 11. The issue of executive vs. legislative rights is even bigger than the issue of tax revision.

If a chief executive consistently sets his judgment against that of the elected representatives of the people and the 48 states, representative democracy is a mockery—particularly if the executive happens to be one who, like Mr. Truman, is serving because of a political accident. There is more at stake in what the President decides to do with the 1948 bill than the provisions of the bill, important as they are.

A third veto of a tax bill overwhelmingly supported by congress would confirm the deepening impression that Mr. Truman lacks any visible qualifications for the office he occupies by a political accident.

Future Farm Policy

SEVEN members of the senate agriculture committee have been reviewing farm price policies to replace the wartime yardsticks which will begin expiring at the end of the year. Senator Aiken of Vermont, a member of the subcommittee, has made public some of the conclusions the group reached.

The gist is that price support will continue in some form, and that soil conservation will draw large appropriations for years to come. A new parity price formula will be drafted, with government buying authorized at various levels from 60 to 90 per cent of parity. The formula would be based on total farm income rather than on the price of a single commodity.

Exact mechanics of the system haven't been worked out yet. It should be a system that won't require the destruction of foodstuffs to keep up prices, a system that has more flexibility than the one now in force.

The Damage Had Been Done

EVERY move to secure peace outside the United Nations charter weakens the prestige of that organization. It is being sidetracked in favor of power politics.

The Soviet Union started the damage by going ahead with power politics after the end of the war, in defiance of the spirit and letter of the United Nations charter. The United States now is fighting fire with fire. It is doing nothing to the United Nations that hadn't been done already by the reality of postwar circumstances in Europe.

Some will blame this government for recognizing what the Kremlin recognized from the outset—that the United Nations, lacking power to enforce its decisions, is at the mercy of its most powerful members. Those who urge that nothing be done to hurt United Nations prestige must bear in mind that decision does not belong to the United States. The damage has been done. The problem is whether or not the United States, which wants to preserve the United Nations, can salvage what Russia has left of it.

There is every reason for this government to support the United Nations as a potential agency for achieving peace on a basis of international good will. But it would be foolish to believe peace can be achieved on that basis now. The United States must deal with the consequences of Russian belligerency realistically—or the United Nations will cease to be even a potential agency for achieving peace.

A Matter of Nomenclature

IN AN effort to bring about uniformity of nomenclature, the senate committee on expenditures in the executive department asks government subdivisions to use the following names, reading from top to bottom: "department, bureau, division, branch, section and unit.

This leaves authority, agency, administration, board, commission and committee. What of them? Perhaps the committee, in a frantic effort to reduce expenses, is about to issue a directive reading: "All subdivisions not herein provided for are, as of now, cut off without a red cent.

Clarifying the Law

THE budget bureau recommends that congress re-examine the GI bill of rights with a view to eliminating an ambiguity. Nominally the bill is designed to help veterans obtain an academic or vocational education but actually it lets them receive government-paid instruction in "any field or branch of knowledge."

Budget bureau officials believe the liberal interpretation of this cause has resulted in the expenditure of $250,000,000 on subjects which might better be classified as hobbies or diversions. By making the legislation more specific, congress will clarify the law for the veterans administration without minimizing the educational opportunities of any veteran.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

Entertainment's Place in Children's Lives.

ALL the time I read about how our children are being corrupted by the movies, radio the comic strip and now television. As one writer, Gertrude Samuels, puts it: "Do children need this exposure to violence, red-blooded adventure and the argot of criminals as part of their natural process of 'growing up'?"

Each generation, when it becomes adult, forgets its own childhood, except in a kind of nostalgic perfection. The other day, I was discussing our doings of 40 years ago with an Irish friend and we both concluded that stealing sweet mickies (sweet potato to the ignorant) from a pushcart peddler, baking them in a fire made of old wooden boxes and barrels, purloined from wherever they could be, purloined and lixed on the street where all could gather about it, was not juvenile delinquency. It was fun.

SOKOLSKY

In those days, we read Frank Merriwell and Dead-Eye Dick although Henty and Barbour were tolerated. Horatio Alger was regarded as inadequately literate. However, we survived them all and many of us came out of the cauldron, misty sentimentalists who love all of mankind, no matter what kind.

Making Discoveries

I watch my little girl listen of an afternoon to all this miserable stuff called Soap opera which I would not be caught listening to—but nobody can catch you overhearing it, if it's on anyhow. So, I wonder if the child is being corrupted by all the miseries of family life, and woe is me! I discover that somehow, out of the reachings of childhood, she is discovering that some things are good and some things are bad, and that if you pursue the bad courses, you get into trouble in the end—even if, in between, you might get a mink coat. That is more than I get from movies for adults, most of which are designed to show that the wages of sin are a penthouse, a diamond bracelet and an emotion termed love, by which is meant not the sobriety of family life but sex passion, ample if not pure.

Some Helpful Program

Then I discover that my young fellow gets a vast amount of scientific information occasionally from "Jack Armstrong, the All-American boy," from "Exploring the Unknown," and "Eye-Witness" and "The Nature of Things" on television. Then I found the best Bible (forbidden in schools by the supreme court) teaching they get from "Light of the World," and "The Greatest Story Ever Told." The supreme court has not yet made an atheist of the radio.

Now, as to comic strips, there are two that I like very much for children, "Prince Valiant," which I am sure is both historically valuable and inspirational, and "Enok's Adventures," which gives a child a background of his country. I find that children, free of both the murders and what a small boy described to me as "smack-smack," meaning that the characters osculate profusely. What they like is a story—a continuous, moving story.

Not Much Change

We adults, who used to watch the early serials in the movies, had about the same taste in movies as our children nowadays have in serials. We liked, for instance, "The Perils of Pauline" and similar serials and went every week, and had a week in between to speculate on how they would come out. In fact, the speculation was part of the game and it was worth saving pennies to make the nickle.

The assumption that all these forms of child entertainment are ipso facto bad is both untrue and unfair. A well-bred child, one whose parents are not too busy to talk things over, will after trial and error, discover what is stupid, what is boring and what, to the child, is a waste of time. Of course, the child whose parents are always too busy to give them even a moment for discussion, lacks the chance to weave a story of its own imagination.

In fact, it seems to be that our quarrel, is not with what the child reads or sees or hears; it is that the current generation of parents seems to have too little time and patience to be a part of the child's life.

U. S. Needs More Than Arms

By Walter Lippmann

EVEN if all the military measures now proposed were taken properly—selective service, universal military training, an expansion of the air force, a revival of military lend-lease to western Europe, and unhesitating support of the Italian government—the situation would not be in hand without a revision and reorganization of our diplomatic policy. Strategical considerations are now paramount in the test of power which the Kremlin has decided upon, and in the showdown which is coming.

LIPPMANN

That means that we can no longer afford the policy of general containment by indirect pressure and inconclusive subsidies and indecisive intervention all around the vast periphery from Germany through the Middle East to China. For we can never be strong enough everywhere to make such a policy successful.

At the zenith of our military power in World War II, and when we had powerful allies, it was necessary to make strategical choices as to where our military effort should be concentrated. Today it is even more essential that we choose the positions which can be secured, and our power committed and invested, with the greatest economy of force and with the best prospect of exerting the greatest pressure on the Soviet Union itself.

Our diplomatic strategy has to be fitted to the fact that we must cross the oceans before we can exert military pressure; to the fact that we can never hope to equal the military man power of the Communist coalition; to the fact that our military superiority is in extremely complicated and cumbersome engines of war; to our command of the sea; and to the political realities—which are that in the whole periphery in Europe and Asia we are confronted almost everywhere with uncertainty and bad risks.

We can not know how much the western Germans can be relied upon should Russia offer Germany the prizes and inducements that Russia alone can offer Germany. We may know what Chiang Kai-shek would like to do; we can not count securely on what he will be able to do.

Danger Not Removed

We can not have any firm confidence as to whether the Arab League would hold together, or what the states that belong to it would do, if they were put to the test, and had to deal with Stalin and Molotov rather than with the British Foreign Office and Mr. Bevin.

Therefore, though the positions in western Europe were consolidated, the great periphery would still be soft and dangerous. Our present policy in this periphery is no more than a haphazard series of entanglements and improvisations, entered into without a strategical plan as a result of conflicting pressures within the State Department and Congress, and upon them.

It is time that Secretary Marshall took the view that diplomacy under existing conditions is not a matter of international conferences and public relations but ultimately and essentially what it was when, as chief of staff, he played a leading part in the grand decisions as to when, where, and how the military resources of the coalition would be allocated and deployed. For the conflict with the Soviet Union is now primarily a struggle for strategical advantage in anticipation of a military showdown.

Whether the struggle will end in war may depend on accidents, intrigue, and provocation which no one in Moscow or Washington may be able to foresee or to control. But in so far as this strategical struggle is still controllable, the outcome will surely depend on what, when the showdown comes, is the balance of power.

In reviewing our diplomatic policy our overriding interest is to avoid exhausting entanglements where no immediate decision can be had, and to concentrate, the greatest force at those selected points which can be made secure and can be used.

It is reasonable to ask ourselves, then, whether, all things considered, Japan is not the most economical, reliable, and advantageous point at which to concentrate in the Far East. It is evident that the world conflict can not be decided in China; China is much too remote from the vital centers of Russia and of the United States.

Germany, viewed as a problem of global strategy, can not, I submit, be treated as a military asset. For there is no certainty whatsoever that a reconstructed western Germany would have any ideological qualms about making an alliance with Russia. The precedents of history and the logic of the present situation are a warning that this is precisely what might happen. The actions of the German Communists and of many German nationalists point unmistakably to it.

Therefore, though western Germany would be integrated into the European Recovery Program, both for the sake of Germany and Europe it should be our settled policy to be prepared for a political turnabout in Germany. It should be made quite plain to the German nation that if once again they made a deal with Russia, or even begin to make the first moves toward such a deal, this will be an act of aggression against the west which will be met by summary action.

The Easter Date

Easter, which falls on March 28 this year, can occur anytime between March 22 and April 25. This varying date puzzles many folks and annoys florists, merchants and transportation companies, among others.

The method of establishing the date was set up in 325 A. D. by the Council of Nicea. It was fixed as the first Sunday following the 14th day of the new moon that begins on or after the vernal equinox.

The date was arranged to provide a full moon for pilgrims visiting the Holy Land, which, then as now, was a dangerous place in which to roam after dark. Several attempts to establish a fixed date have yielded to tradition.

The Wallace Pattern

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

THE pattern is always the same, whether in the United States or in Europe. First there is no more than a little gentle footy-footy between a non-Communist liberal or Left-Winger and the Communist. Then, he suddenly finds himself their political and intellectual prisoner. The liberal is then compelled to turn and rend the non-Communist Left and liberal movement of which he was once a part. And finally, he is forced into the kind of petty political and intellectual dishonesty which is the stock in trade of his Communist captors.

Henry A. Wallace has now completed this process. Very few of his followers are Communists. They are rather perfectly sincere and honest people, who have joined the Wallace movement in a desperate search for peace. Certainly few of them understand the remarkable extent to which the shaggy Wallace, with his simple eminently American appearance, has become the captive of a group which clearly serves a foreign interest.

Yet this can be very simply illustrated by the story (which will no doubt be denied) of certain meetings in New York City. Almost every week, and usually on Wednesday evening, a small and select group gathers in a house in downtown New York. The political coloration of this group may be judged by the fact that the host is none other than Mr. Frederick V. Field. Mr. Field is a known Communist, a former contributing editor and principal angel of the now defunct Communist magazine, "The New Masses." The purpose of the meetings is to do "research" for, and to plan the general tenor and content of, the frequent speeches of Henry A. Wallace.

The actual writing of the Wallace speeches is a task usually performed by Wallace's clever and literate chief ghost, Mr. Lew Frank, who is understood to be a non-Communists in the same sense that Wallace himself is a non-Communist. Mr. Wallace thus provides the voice. Mr. Frank provides the words. But the select company to which Mr. Field plays host provides the ideas.

This should surprise no one who has followed Mr Wallace's speeches and noted their increasingly startling resemblance to the editorials in the New York "Daily Worker." What is surprising is the extent to which he is allowing himself to be used to slaughter the whole Left and liberal movement of which Franklin Roosevelt was once the leader and of which Wallace himself was once a part.

Representative Helen Gahagan Douglas and Representative Chester Hollifield of California are two of the dwindling band of Roosevelt New Dealers and Left-Wing liberals in the house. Both have devoted their political lives to the Left and liberal movement. On the fifteenth of this month both received telegrams from the Wallace movement in California. The telegrams preemptorially ordered them to appear in person before the satraps of the Wallace party in California, "not later" than four days from that date. They were told to have answers ready on a series of questions on foreign policy and other matters.

Matter of Figures

The telegram to Mrs. Douglas pointed out that 30,000 Wallace signatures had been secured in her district. In the last election, Mrs. Douglas's margin of victory had been in the neighborhood of 5,000 votes. There was no need to spell out the threat.

Emergence of a Wallace candidate would spell certain defeat for Mrs. Douglas, and by splitting the liberal vote, insure the election of a Republican. And the telegrams specifically queried the two representatives on their attitude toward ERP, which it is the announced objective of the Communists, and thus of the Wallace movement, to wreck. Mrs. Douglas courageously replied, reaffirming her support for ERP. So did Mr. Hollifield.

Mrs. Douglas and Mr. Hollifield were clearly marked for the slaughter when the telegram was sent, although there is reported to be some sentiment in national Wallace headquarters that to kill off a pair with so unblemished a liberal voting record, would be too crude. The decision may thus be reversed. If it is not, Representatives Douglas and Hollifield will doubtless soon undergo the same campaign of political assassination to which Mr. Paul Douglas of Chicago has already been subjected.

They're After Douglas

Mr. Douglas, an able liberal and New Dealer, and Democratic candidate for senator in Illinois, has been ticketed for defeat by the Wallace forces because he has supported ERP. The result will almost certainly be the election of the Chicago Tribune's fair-haired boy, Senator Curley Brooks. Mr. Douglas has been publicly described by Wallace propagandists as an advocate of immediate war against Russia, and a friend of the Taft-Hartley act. Both charges are, of course, lies.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Television and the Campaign

Television may or may not play a big part in the next presidential election. If it does more than one candidate will have reason to worry. Those whose hats are already in the ring are reported showing visible concern, its owners being governed by what they see in their own mirrors.

PHILLIPS

The time is coming, however, when the face on the living-room screen, the barroom wall and the auditorium radio set will supersede the face on the election banner. And when that day arrives the candidate who tosses his hat into the ring will be tossing his face into the television apparatus.

If we were running for office with television in most every home we would campaign in a baseball uniform, football headgear, fighting trunks, as it is action that seems to count on the video, and we think a candidate who could demonstrate a flying tackle, a knuckle ball or the one-two punch for the great unseen audience would have a big advantage. The stay-at candidate would get no place fast.

The age of sound is fading into the age of sight. We are in an optical era. Our forefathers could judge a man from the intelligence of his spoken word. If he was baldheaded, cockeyed or lopeared it made no difference. If a man seemed to have the brains for the White House job his facial expression was unimportant.

It wasn't fatal in the early days to put up a candidate for public office who didn't see anything to laugh at.

Some of our best mayors, governors and presidents were notable deadpans and sourpusses. The American people for years were more inclined to trust a candidate who resembled Dracula than the Cheshire Cat.

But in the last quarter of a century all has changed and you can't get a man to face a camera unless he appears to be taking a bow after a comedy scene in a burlesque house. The worst part of it is that a lot of able Americans who don't grin easily are making the effort nevertheless.

And with television it is going to get worse. It is time to call a halt unless you want your living-room full of politicians trying to outgrin one another. The expression of silliness as a badge of statesmanship needs correcting. We don't know just what to do, but we would suggest that the national magazines, newspapers and movie houses start running pictures of our greatest presidents with their faces retouched to show them registering something between imbecility and super amusement.

Washington on the steps of the White House looking something like a movie actor accepting an Oscar, with Martha giggling at his side. Or instance... Or Abe Lincoln reading the Emancipation Proclamation, hat in the air and trying to wear the expression of a delicatessen dealer who had just won a sweepstakes. It might do.

IMA DODO, hearing Costello was the new prime minister of Ireland asked, "Has he split with Abbott?"

Herman Hickman, new coach of the Yale football squads, weighs 300 pounds and is the roundest rotund figure in football. There is going to be a strong temptation to sing the Eli grid song, "Roll, Roll On Down the Field."

Meeting Adjourned

By TRUMAN TWILL

Meetings are gatherings of two or more human beings at a specified time and place to perform certain duties, such as adopting resolutions for and against things, declaring dividends, formulating policies and getting other human beings out of one another's hair in case of disagreement about what the policies mean.

Meetings also are held merely for the sake of holding meetings, meaning they have no purpose except to give the recording secretary a chance to inscribe in the minutes that a meeting was held. Mr. Zilch made a motion, which was seconded by Mrs. Gulch and everybody voted yes whereupon there was a motion for adjournment.

There also are meetings whose only purpose is to hear someone give a message, which may or may not be as memorable as the story told by the next fellow at the table, who looks upon meetings as an opportunity to pass along all the new stories he has heard, which is as good a reason for meetings as any of the other reasons for meetings.

The liveliest meetings are those which give rise to spirited discussions, a tactful phrase for concealing the fact that what happened was a knock-down-and-drag-out argument with everybody taking sides and leaving the meeting in a convertible huff, but with no intention of converting it.

With so many different kinds of meetings no one ever needs to complain because there are no meetings to go to. Quite the contrary, there are so many meetings to attend that anyone who isn't careful soon will find himself living away from home on a steady diet of chicken a la king and second-hand tobacco smoke.

There are luncheon meetings, dinner meetings and breakfast meetings. There are short meetings, medium meetings and meetings that last for days at a time. There are regular meetings and meetings called for special occasions under authority vested in presidents and boards. Meetings grow as they go, like rabbits. Big meetings give rise to committee meetings and committee meetings open the door to more big meetings and so on until life ceases to be a bowl of cherries and becomes a potpourri of meetings all sizes and shapes with similar variations in the quality of the stories told by the fellow who sits at the next place at the table.

Which is all there is to say about meetings at this time, except that it now is time to go to order and be recorded among those present by the recording secretary, who will open the whole thing by telling who was present at the last set of minutes read and approved unless there is some correction, etc., meeting now open for old business, new business, further matters to be brought up, if not chair will entertain a motion for adjournment and that's that.

WASHINGTON — They finally let the loading continue

James Marlow

How could such loading take place if no shipments for Russia have been approved since March 1?

The same commerce department official explained it this way: goods being loaded now were on their way to port before March 1.

THIS WILL GIVE SOME IDEA of the trade between this country and Russia.

In 1938, the last pre-war year, 16 per cent of all our exports abroad went to Russia. They were worth $69,000,000.

In 1947 our shipments to Russia were 1 per cent of our entire export trade. They were worth $149,000,000.

(At present inflated prices, the official said, that $149,000,000 in 1947 wasn't much more, if any, than the $69,000,000 in 1938.)

What did Russia buy from us in 1938 and 1947? Pretty much the same both years with machinery more than half of it.

Other things Russia got from us included fuel oil for its fishing fleets, copper wire, tobacco, rope, scientific instruments.

What we imported from Russia in 1938 was one per cent of our entire import trade. It was about the same in 1947.

Undressed furs made up 56 per cent of the things we bought from Russia last year, platinum for sharpening tools and chrome-manganese for making steel made up another 26 per cent.

Among our other imports from Russia were caviar, wood pulp, sausage casings, diamonds, camel's hair.

But won't the Communist-run countries around Russia be able to buy from us the things Russia wants but can't get here?

The commerce department official said "no," that Russia and all the Russian-dominated countries will be treated as one area.

Chicago Commuters Have Farmers' Club

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 23 — Hundreds of farmers roam the skyscrapers of downtown Chicago through it is many decades since that area was a cow pasture. They belong to the little-known Chicago Farmers club.

Insurance and advertising agents, bankers, lawyers, executives, office and factory workers, businessmen, all are "overalls" farm operators with jobs in the city.

Some, admittedly, do their farming most of the year by remote control. But one member claims he can tell now much milk each cow will give "by the way she switches her tail."

Most have farms within daily commuting distance of the big town. Some consider their acres country estates and live there only during the summer.

Others operate through hired managers and retire to the peaceful countryside on weekends. A number own the family homestead or a ranch at some distance and reach it only at vacation time.

Cistern Underneath Crossroads Memorial

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, March 23—A proposal to remove the Gold Star mothers' memorial plot at the three-way intersection of route 4 and 98 declared a traffic hazard, has brought to attention the ancient city underground water supply most many years ago for fighting fires.

Located under the memorial plot is one of the 18-brick walled cisterns still water-filled and inspected from time to time by Fire Chief William Mader, as a precaution should the need arise again to bring them into use. When they were originally built the cisterns provided the only water supply for fighting fires.

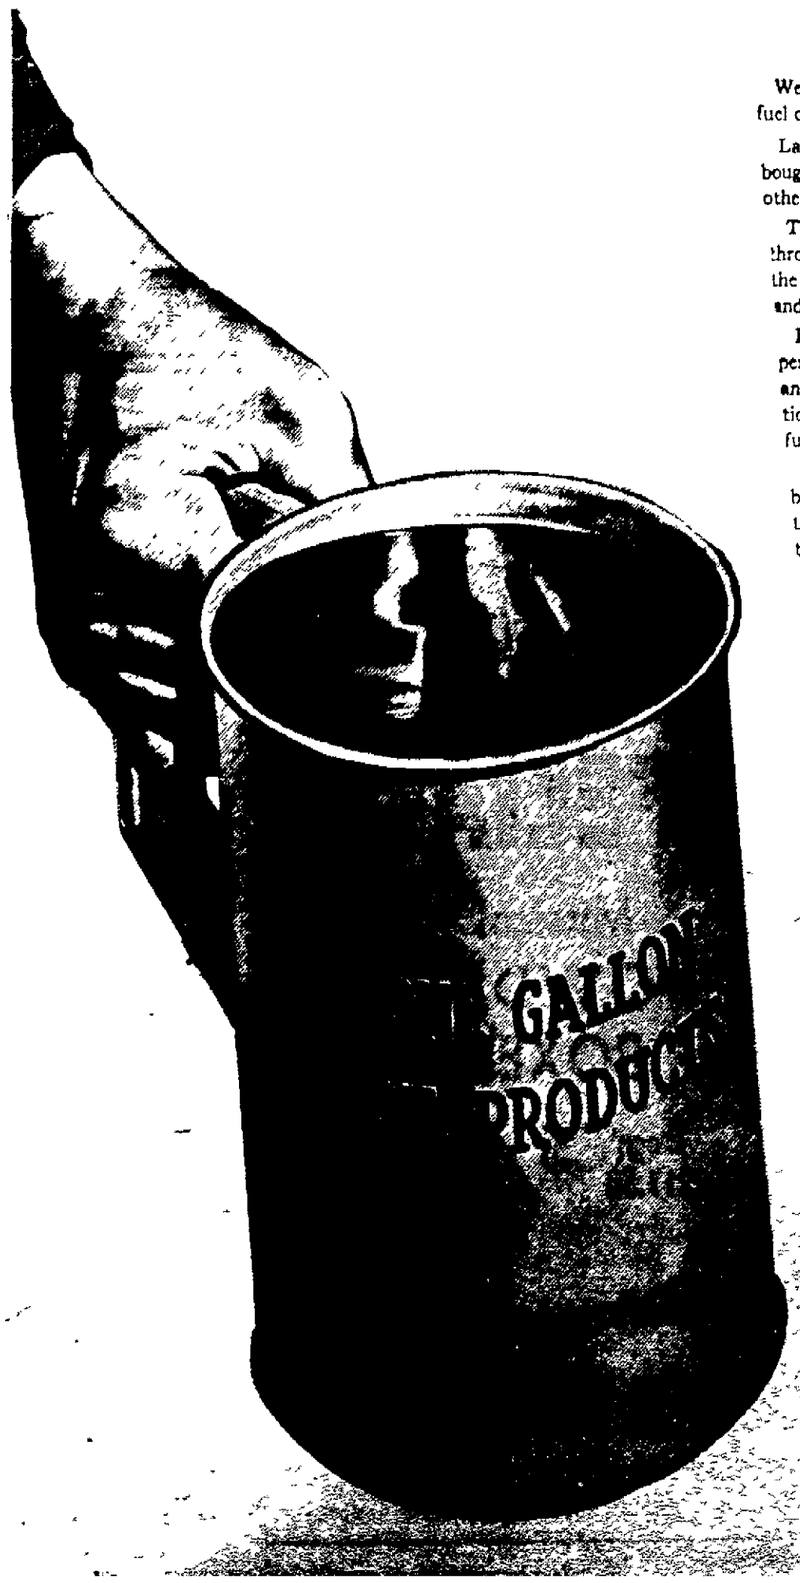
...all for 1¢ a gallon?



We start with crude oil . . . the stuff gasoline and motor oil and fuel oil and a thousand things are made of.

Last year, we used about a billion and a half gallons of it. We bought it or drilled for it in Oklahoma and Texas and a dozen other states.

Then we brought it as far as fifteen hundred miles . . . pushed it through pipes . . . or towed it in barges up the Mississippi . . . up the Ohio . . . to more pipelines . . . to Latonia, to Lima, to Toledo, and to Cleveland.

Here it disappeared into a vast collection of complicated, expensive equipment — a refinery. After thousands of man hours and millions of feet of pipe and equipment for distilling, fractionating, cracking, dewaxing, it came out gasoline, motor oil, fuel oil.

Then . . hurry it up . . . Ashtabula's almost out . . . Columbus is getting impatient . . . Zanesville's waiting — get it into the tank trucks . . . or into pipelines . . . out to the bulk stations . . . more than a hundred of them all over Ohio.

And from there, at last, gasoline into the tanks of your friend who mans or owns a Sohio station . . . or fuel oil in your own basement.

Yes, that's the job. That's a quick look at our business in 1947.

Did we get rich? Well, not exactly.

We said we used about a billion and a half gallons of crude. Last year we had a net earning of $16,390,585 . . . and that's a little more than a billion and a half cents. (This figures out to 1.1462¢ a gallon.) Is it too much . . . a cent a gallon? Would you do it?

"For 16 million?" you say . . . "Why sure I'd do it!"

Oh, but just a moment. In the last five years, we've had to invest $106,834,000 in new plants and equipment. In 1947 alone, we invested $29,130,000 . . . 13 million more than we made last year . . . for new wells . . . new pipelines . . . new refinery equipment . . . new trucks . . . new storage tanks . . . a few new stations . . . just to serve Ohio people the way they want and need to be served! What is in the future? To serve you more . . . more of everything is needed . . . more wells, more pipelines, more refineries, and distribution equipment.

Is this easy? No, it is not easy . . . but, it has to be done.

HOLY WEEK MESSAGE ON REAL MEANING OF LIFE

For his Monday night message in the series of Holy Week services at Epworth Methodist church, Dr. Hazen G. Werner of Drew theological seminary, Madison, N. J., guest preacher, used the subject "The Road Is Better than the Inn."

He explained that the title was a quotation from a Spanish philosopher, with the principal thought based on the idea that "one can stay with the crowd in the inn" and get nowhere, or be "down on the road with the minority," which calls for a struggle or striving to reach a better place or better condition of life.

"People want security, comfort, luxury and conveniences, such as our many modern inventions provide, but these things fail to give any real meaning to life, he declared. "It is a strange paradox that whenever one lives for only what one can get, those things are not worth living for," he maintained.

"Christian discipleship is like traveling on the road . . . the basic philosophy of life is to face and to overcome it. The church needs to develop in its people kindness and a love for the unlovely person, a sense of responsibility toward those who want to belong to some group."

Your Good Health

Blood Clots That Form in Veins

The formation of a blood clot in a vein is known as venous thrombosis.

There are two types of this condition, one much more dangerous than the other. The first and relatively less serious one is called thrombophlebitis. It usually occurs in the veins near the surface. Here, the clotting is due to inflammation of the wall of the blood vessel.

The second type is known as phlebothrombosis. In these cases, the vessel walls are healthy, but a clot forms because the blood coagulates more rapidly than it should. These clots are likely to form in the deep veins of the legs. The chief hazard of this type of venous thrombosis lies in the danger that the clots may be pushed into the general circulation. Here they may travel to the lungs and block important blood vessels there, causing sudden serious illness or even death.

Injuries to the tissues, congestion in the liver, severe infections and overweight are contributing causes for phlebothrombosis, because these disorders seem to slow down the speed with which the blood flows through the veins. Shallow breathing following operation, and prolonged rest in bed, during which there is little or no muscle movement in the legs, are also factors in producing blood clots in veins.

In thrombophlebitis, the clots which form adhere closely to the inflamed wall of the vessel and there is little danger of their coming loose. Symptoms include pain, fever, and swelling of the affected parts. If the infection is confined to deeper veins, the skin is white and cold. When the superficial veins are involved, the skin is red and warm.

In phlebothrombosis, the symptoms are not as constant. There may be some pain or tenderness in the calves of the legs and pain on movement of the foot. If it is suspected that the disorder is present, X-rays of the legs can be made in order to confirm the diagnosis of the presence of clots.

Getting patients up and about early after operation has reduced the number of cases of venous thrombosis. Following surgical operation in elderly patients, or in those who have had varicose veins, the application of moderately tight bandages to the legs and thighs may help to ward off the formation of blood clots in the veins.

There is a substance known as dicoumarol which may be given by mouth, to slow down the clotting of the blood. In certain instances, it may be advisable to give this substance as a precaution to prevent clotting as in cases of broken bones, for instance, or in operations where there is special danger of thrombosis formation.

In cases where it is suspected that a clot has formed which is not attached, it is necessary to ligate or tie off the affected vein immediately in order to prevent the clot from getting into the blood stream.

Thrombophlebitis is usually treated by keeping the leg at rest, applying heat, and by giving easy massage as the condition clears up.

Questions and Answers

A. J.: I am forty-two years old and have pains in the breast. Is this something to be alarmed about?

Answer: The condition is probably not a serious one. However, it may be due to an infection or inflammation or to some type of tumor. Hence, careful study by a physician should be made as soon as possible.

LAUSCHE

any individual regardless of his political strength.

"My defeat by 40,000 votes in 1946 can be traced to a number of circumstances then occuring in national politics. The campaign was made during the bitter congressional battle over controls on meat and at the time Henry Wallace made a foreign policy speech in complete discord with administration policy at that time.

"I lost to an opponent who promised the voters a reduction in state taxes. My opponent charged during that campaign that I was extravagant with the state's money. Since he has taken office the cost of government has risen from $340,000,000 for my last two year term to $500,000,000 which will be the cost of two years of state government under the plan of spending by the present administration.

"The people of the state, in view of this $160,000,000 increase in the cost of government by the present governor, must determine whether Lausche was negligent, or whether he was a guard of the treasury. They must determine whether pressure groups have made a head-long dive into the state's surplus during the present administration. And where, oh where, is that tax reduction which was so earnestly promised you by the present governor.

Refers To Lima Incident

"Upon my appearance recently in Lima I found that a prominent politician of that area had phoned persons who were to attend my meeting and threatened them with a party "blacklisting" if they should attend.

"I brand the "Lima incident" as an example of "gestapo practices" which are wrong in a free America. In our land you have the right to listen to whomsoever you wish and to read whatever you like. Had you been present at Middletown the other night when my opponent refused to have his picture taken with me, you would have seen the reaction of the 800 people present to that type of conduct.

"If I am elected governor I promise to carry high the banner of the Democratic party in a vigorous manner with the rights of the people of this state uppermost in my thoughts.

Following Mr. Lausche's address Chairman Lauer introduced Harry Armstrong of LaRue, candidate for state treasurer, and Paul F. Ward of Steubenville, candidate for attorney general. A general introduction of county candidates from the Eighth district followed.

Just prior to the main address, executive and central committee chairmen of the six counties were introduced. They are R. L. Hertzer of Bucyrus and V. R. Hoover of Crestline, representing Crawford county; Sherman E. Frost of Findlay, Hancock county; W. B. Price and L. B. Brown of Kenton, Hardin county; James F. Lauer of Prospect, Marion county; Steve R. McKirgan of Mt. Gilead, Morrow county; and Roswell Williams and Walter Swoverland of Upper Sandusky, Wyandot county chairmen.

Other prominent Democrats in attendance were Harold Mason, former state representative, Upper Sandusky, William Rhodes of Cleveland, and Walter Martin associate of Paul McNutt in Indiana.

LAUSCHE IN BUCYRUS

BUCYRUS, March 23—Former governor Frank J. Lausche, candidate for renomination visited Bucyrus briefly Monday enroute to Marion for his speaking engagement there at noon. Under escort he made a brief tour of city and county offices with Mayor R. L. Hertzer.

parents in May, 1946. Arrangements for his burial in Bucyrus are indefinite.

Sgt. Hurd died of wounds while in service with the U.S. Marines in the South Pacific. Word of his death was received by his family on Aug. 17, 1944, his thirty-third birthday anniversary. He enlisted in the Marines in February, 1942, and left for overseas Aug. 30, of the same year. Before entering service, he was driver of a Greyhound bus for nearly eight years.

The majority of the bodies on the Schwenk were placed aboard at Tanapag, Saipan, after which a brief stop was made at Honolulu. The group aboard the Schwenk is the largest to be returned from the Pacific to date. Two other vessels have returned war dead from the Pacific area and three from the European battle zones since the Army's Return of World War II Dead program began last October.

It is expected by the Army that from ten days to three weeks would elapse between the arrival of the Schwenk and final interment.

Taximen Ordered Not To Neglect Long Hauls

By The United Press

NEW YORK—The police department has pasted up notices on the city's 11,000 taxicabs saying: "This driver is required by law to drive you anywhere and to any location within the five boroughs comprising New York City."

The notices came after many complaints to police that drivers refused to go from one borough to another, preferring the more profitable short-haul rides.

It is estimated that half of human headaches are caused by eye strain.

FLOOD VICTIM RESCUED. Three-year-old Robin Thompson is hauled to safety by the use of an improvised breeches buoy when raging flood waters of the Etobicoke river trapped 100 families at Toronto, Ontario, Canada.

TINY FLIER SETS OCEAN RECORD. Quite sleepy and bored appears 8-week-old Jackie Hall as he arrives at La Guardia Field, New York from London, to set a record as the youngest baby to fly the Atlantic without his parents. However, the card on his crib answered all questions until his grandmother, Mrs. O. J. Villere, New Orleans, met him at the airport. Jackie arrived, equipped with a dozen diapers and his own food formula.

CATHOLIC PRIEST AN EXPERT AS FIREMAN

By The United Press

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—The "best darned fireman in the department." That's what Cambridge firemen say about their chaplain, Rev. Thomas J. Tierney.

The big, square-jawed Catholic priest is one of the city's hardest-working firemen. In the past year alone, he answered 531 alarms.

For 16 years, Father Tierney has been there—cassock, rosary, boots, helmet and rubber coat.

He is as quick and capable as any member of the department, firemen say, at manning a hose line or scrambling over a window sill.

Father Tierney has some sad memories, but none more tragic than his experience at the Cocoanut Grove holocaust in which 491 persons perished in Boston Nov. 28, 1942.

Just as he arrived, two firemen were lifting a chair with "a boy from my parish sitting straight up in it."

"His entire face was burned away, but I knew who he was from the back of his neck," the chaplain says. "I'd looked at the back of that boy's neck many a time in my Sunday school class and on my basketball team.

"Just that morning he had been married. Not two feet away sat his bride—dead."

Egypt's prevailing winds blow south and the Nile flows north so that boats can sail up and drift down.

GIVES STRIKE VIEWS. A spokesman for northern Appalachian soft coal operators, Charles O'Neill is pictured at a press conference in Washington as he declared the walkout of 400,000 miners "is absolutely unwarranted." In an attempt to settle the dispute, the government has called a joint conference between operators and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers.

A suggestion was made by Councilman Harold Smith, First ward, for a stop light at North Main and Mark streets for the safety of city fire apparatus at the Mark street station. Mr. Smith pointed to the hazard to apparatus in entering the heavy traffic on North Main street without protection of a light to insure the fire department's right of way. He suggested the light could be controlled by either the fire or police departments and operated only in case of fire calls.

Recreation Urged As Health Measure

By The United Press

CHICAGO — A professor of medicine says the average person of middle age or beyond needs recreation more than exercise.

Dr. Wingate M. Johnson, Winston-Salem, N. C., professor of clinical medicine at Wake Forest college, contends that even more important than the annual vacation of two weeks or more are frequent week-end vacations.

"Everyone needs a free afternoon a week, in addition to Sunday," he said in a talk here. "The observance of the Sabbath is based as much upon hygienic principles as upon moral tenets."

POSTWAR BLACKOUT HARASSES CLEVELAND

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., March 23 — Electricity was restored to most of the city early today after a switchboard fire plunged large areas into darkness.

The blaze at the main plant of the Cleveland electric illuminating plant was caused by a transformer short-circuit, first assistant Fire Chief James Nimmo said.

Affected by the blackout were most of the downtown area and the suburban sections of East Cleveland, Cleveland Heights, University Heights and Shaker Heights.

Most street lights received their current from the municipal power plant and remained ignited, but radio stations went off the air for varying periods.

At one hospital, a baby was delivered under candlelight and through use of emergency equipment.

The pearly gates were opened,
A gentle voice said, "Come."
And with farewells unspoken,

Anxious to please, loath to offend,

He also asserted the New York stock exchange's "sharp advances" of last week were caused by "the talk of big rearmament plans."

Tired, "All-In"—Listless Feeling Brought To Halt

As Vibrant Energy is Released To Every Muscle, Fibre, Cell

Do you get up in the mornings still tired, feel down-and-out all day? Have you checked-up on your blood strength lately? Overwork, undue worry, cold, flu or other illness often wears down the red-blood-cells.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic Helps Build Sturdy Health.

... the Bible by educa-...ations which have ... the Scriptures in favor of material theories is responsible for a large measure of present human woes. Mr. Van Atta told his audience in the church edifice. Speaking as a guest of First Church of Christ Scientist he was introduced by Mrs. Mary O. Smith, Second Reader.

Best Guide Withheld

"We deplore the delinquency of the young while we withhold from them the one book most able to enlighten and guide them," the lecturer declared. "We send them out to fight for democracy while we ignore the very foundation of democracy. We spend millions of dollars for medicines which would not be needed if we would only accept the healing Word of God. We pass multitudes of laws to correct human injustices, whereas an understanding of the things of Spirit, as set forth in the Bible would prevent such injustices.

"The reason for this regrettable state of affairs is that men have failed to see the true, spiritual meaning of the Bible. It has been a closed book to many, a treasure chest locked and the key lost. But the study of the Christian Science textbook, 'Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures' by Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, so unlocks the treasurers of God's Word that all who read the Bible may understand and be healed."

Friend of Humanity

God, divine Love, is the great friend of humanity and has provided every necessary means for the progressive demonstration of health, harmony, and happiness, Mr. Van Atta continued.

"Most people," he said, "like to make friends. Through the study and practice of Christian Science we realize that we are friends of God. We feel God's power and presence, and we partake of His love. We realize something of the infinitude of good, and express it in our daily lives. We begin to find the universe friendly, for enmity is being erased by love. The way to universal brotherhood is revealed in the Bible and explained and taught in Christian Science."

Numerous actual instances of healing through the application of Christian Science in education, physical difficulties, the home, and business were related by the lecturer.

One young man brought up in the Christian Science Sunday School found himself with insufficient funds for a college education. He chose to take class instruction in Christian Science instead of hoarding his savings. By seeking God's truth first he found the way open to a completely satisfying college course. At one time he passed a seemingly impossible examination with a grade of 100 per cent by turning unreservedly to God for guidance. The class average was only 27 per cent.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

IT was my turn to stare wildly at my husband.

"A hidden box seat," I repeated inanely. "What do you mean?"

"Exactly what I say," he repeated a bit impatiently. "You can fix the door of one of the rooms adjoining Dad's sitting room so that it will stay ajar, but not so that Georges will detect it. Besides I shall guarantee to keep his attention riveted on me and my words, so that he will have no time to roll his eyes in any other direction."

"I don't like it," I said emphatically, although I was conscious of a mean wish to be present when Dicky should discipline Georges. "I never eavesdropped, voluntarily," I finished, remembering the night when Dicky and I were witnesses of the farewell scene between Mary and Georges, when she slapped his face because he tried forcibly to kiss her good-bye.

Dicky chuckled, and then gave me a wide grin.

"I see you remember an involuntary 'snooping,'" he said, "and it is because of that, you must—notice that little word 'must'—listen in at this session.

"You didn't have the word 'obey' in the marriage ceremony, you advanced feminist," he went on, with pretended ferocity, "but by the Eternal, you're going to obey me in this, or I'll take a hickory stick bigger than 'two thumbs' to you."

"But why?" I asked belligerently, although my sneaking wish to witness Georges' deflation was becoming a clamor. "Why do you want me to listen to what you say to Georges?"

"Because of your memory, you adorable sap," my husband retorted. "I'll be so wrought up in the process of reducing him to a pulp that I won't be able to remember correctly what I tell him. And Mary is entitled to a correct and detailed account of every word, not only that I say, but what Georges says."

"Yes, I can see that," I said dragging the words out, "and I'll do what you wish."

My husband looked at me keenly.

"And you'll be singing hosannas because of the privilege," he said.

"Yes, go on, blush your head off. It's becoming. But don't try to bluff me. Remember, I know you as if I'd put you together and strung you on your wire. You wouldn't miss this session for anything. Now, right after dinner, you beat it back to Dad's wing and set the stage for the 'snooping' scene. I'll wait seven minutes after you go, two in apparently casual conversation with 'K'; we'll use a code so he'll know where he's to station himself, and another five to get Georges back to Dad's wing, and settled in the sitting room. Then the show will begin. You can alternate your chuckles of glee with prayers for his soul and body. He'll need 'em."

"Dicky!" I exclaimed, "Surely, you're not thinking of—"

"Of chastising Georges?" he said. "Not unless he makes it necessary, by trying to sock me one. If he does, I shall move in, and 'K' will be in the offing to help me complete the job. That royal heel has been needing a little kneading—and if you throw anything at me for that pun, I'll swat you one—for a long, long time, and I'm only hoping he does start something."

"Well, I'm not," I said, and my husband gave me a quizzical look.

"Are the well-known sympathies for the under dog perking up?" he asked. "Let me warn you that if they are, you'll be in for a session with the time-honored hair brush, after I finish with Georgy Porgy."

So the Wildcat center, whose team had wrested the eastern title from defending champions, Holy Cross, sent assistant coach Harry Lancaster to scout Kansas State in the semi-finals Friday night, and he sent home plenty of notes, but he didn't even get a look at Baylor Saturday when the Waco lads dropped the favorites, 60-52, in Kansas City . . . Detroit Quints Fades, But Grabs 4th in ABC

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, March 23 — Fife Electric, a fast-starting Detroit quintet, stood fourth in the American Bowling Congress team standings today after blowing a fine chance to take the lead.

Rolling in the last slot of the five-man competition last night, the Detroiters fashioned two games of 1036, but slipped to 867 in the third for a total of 2939.

Clarence Collier, 38-year-old ice cream salesman from Youngstown, O., grabbed an earlier spotlight with a scorching 720—highest three-game set of the tourney.

Rolled in two-man competition, the score topped a 709 turned in by Nick Miller, but failed to dislodge the Massillon, O., bowler from the singles lead. However Collier's mark, added to the mediocre 518 rolled by his partner George Martin, gave the pair third in doubles with 1238.

Collier also took the lead in all-events with a 1922 total.

Walter Seletski, also of Youngstown, pounded out a 684 tally to tie for fourth in singles. A few hours later Eddie Kowalik of Trenton, N. J., hit 697 to take second spot.

Mack Pleased—Fain OK, Training System Works

By The Associated Press

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 23 — Manager Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics had two reasons to be pleased today.

First, he received a letter from first baseman Ferris Fain, who is recovering from a knee operation at his Richmond, Calif., home, notifying the club he'll be back on hand next week.

Secondly, Mack was pleased with the fruits of the A's present training methods.

"I am inclined to believe that week-end games are enough," Mack said.

St. Louis Cardinals Have Greatest Potential Pitching Dept. in National Loop—9 Twirlers

By The Associated Press

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 23—Potentially the St. Louis Cardinals have the greatest pitching depth in the National league, and that doesn't mean the chuckers always are in a note.

It does mean that manager Eddie Dyer, if all the moundsmen turn out as he hopes, can start a new man on the mound every day for nine straight days, barring double headers.

It would be almost too good if such a prospect materialized, but here's the dream as it is right now:

Murry Dickson—a jigger-sized right handed veteran who looks great this spring after a rather ragged season for him, last year.

Harry 'The Cat' Brecheen—reported late and has not come much yet, but has the record of being a reliable performer. Also is particularly tough when the chips are down.

George Munger—looking pretty good to date. With prospects of steady improvement. Won 16 games and lost five for the Cards last year.

Howie Pollet—spelled with a question mark. The erstwhile star had an arm operation during the winter and whether he can come back is guesswork. Hasn't tried to curve 'em yet except once, when he said it hurt severely. Is really the key man, if there's one.

Jim Hearn—a big, strong right hander who won 12 games and lost seven last year.

Al Brazle—looking great. The sinker-ball southpaw won 11 and lost 8 in 1947. Seems a cinch for a good year.

Ken Burkhart—used mostly in relief role last year, but is showing so much stuff he might land a starting berth.

Clarence Beers—a right-handed rookie fresh from a great season with Houston. Like any rookie what he can do against major hitters remains to be seen, but his outlook is promising.

Bucky Walters Concludes He's Done Unless He Perfects New Slow Pitch

By OSCAR FRALEY
UP Sports Writer

TAMPA, Fla., March 23—Bucky Walters disconsolately kicked the pitcher's mound at the spring training camp of the Cincinnati Reds today and concluded that unless he perfects a new slow pitch, like the knuckle ball on which he is working, his playing days are in very low numbers.

A tall, square-cut former infielder pegged a lazy, driving pitch toward the squatting target catching him and shook his head morosely.

"Experience is no substitute for a fast ball," he muttered. "You've got to have that fast one and it's got to have something on it. I don't care if you shoot it out of a cannon, some of these guys will hit it unless it takes off just before it reaches the plate."

Big Buck doubled his three middle fingers under the ball and cut loose again.

All It's Got Is Cover

"That's a knuckler," he said. "But all there is on it is the cover. Sometimes it will break and sometimes it won't. I've been monkeying with it for about a year but I can't control it. So I haven't been able to use it in a game."

A fast ball and slider pitcher since he was converted into a hurler by the late Jimmy Wilson at Philadelphia in 1934, Walters is only two games away from the charmed circle of 200-game winners.

BUCKY WALTERS
Needs Knuckle Ball

"But those two look harder right now than the other 198 I've won," Bucky said as he floated another knuckle ball into the catcher.

Walters' troubles go back to 1945, when he injured his throwing arm. Since then it has pained him whenever he attempts to "throw hard and put anything on the ball." Still he had a winning year in 1946 and then just broke even with an eight and eight mark last season.

Took 15 Aspirins

"Last season I'd take about 15 aspirin tablets the day of a game," he said. "It seemed to deaden the pain in my arm. I must have had two dozen X-rays taken but they can't seem to decide what is the matter. And I've tried everything else, diathermy, osteopaths and the works. But nothing helps.

"So I've just got to get a pitch that I can ease off on or it looks like the end of the road."

But at the moment, Bucky is like a golfing duffer who finally, at the moment of most bitter discouragement, hits a shot.

"Every once in a while that knuckler feels that it's coming under control and then I feel as if there's life in the old soupbone yet," he commented. "But it has to come—or else.

"But even if it doesn't," Walters added as he threw a "nothing" ball that was a home run invitation, "baseball doesn't owe me a thing."

Nothing, that is except those two more wins. If he gets those, the Germantown kid will be ready to bow out gracefully.

Galena, the name of a common lead ore has given its name to towns in five states of the United States and one in Alaska.

went into a bit of a slump batting behind Williams The pitchers would walk Ted to get at me and I was bearing down."

McCarthy never saw Mele until camp opened this spring An example of how he feels about Sam is best shown during hitting practice and in exhibition games Mele is back batting behind Williams "And make believe I don't watch his every motion,' says Sam seriously

2 Years In Baseball

"Mele is the kind of player you don't see every 'day' says Cronin. "Why, he's had only two seasons in organized ball and yet he hits like a real big leaguer He may become a great right handed hitter' Cronin himself was no slouch at the plate for his lifetime mark is 302

Sam was scouted by Neil Mahoney after Bill McCarthy, NYP coach, took the six-foot one outfielder to Boston for a tryout He was signed to the Boston chain by the late Herb Pennock After three years as a Marine he played 119 games for Scranton, Pa., in the Eastern league and hit 342 in 1946 Last year in 123 games he batted 302 even playing a few games at first base. Twelve of his 137 hits were homers.

Mele has tremendous power and a great arm He is not much of a pull hitter as a lot of his blows fine right center

Boston writers thought so much of Mele that only recently they voted him and Earl Torgeson, Braves' first baseman, a dual award as Boston's top rookie

Mele says he received a "nice raise" when he signed his 1948 contract and hopes only to fulfill some of the predictions the experts are making regarding his future.

Ken Keltner Raps 2 Homers As Tribe Tops Browns, 12-10

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, March 23—The old familiar name of Ken Keltner probably will be listed in the Cleveland Indians' opening day lineup

Resembling his "Milwaukee Mauler' days of the pre-war era, Keltner indicated yesterday he would be a hard man to dislodge from third base, blasting two homers as the Tribe topped the St Louis Browns, 12-10 Ken's circuit clouts accounted for half the Indians' dozen runs

Pitcher Bob Lemon and Hank Edwards also contributed homers to the Tribe attack while Browns George Metkovich, Tom Jordan and Eddie Pellagrim hit St Louis round trippers. Both Metkovich and Jordan formerly cavorted for the Indians

The Tribe built up an 8-4 lead in the first five innings, largely on the strength of home runs by Keltner and Lemon Wilgness by Lemon and Steve Gromek, who gave the Browns a total of eight walks and 10 hits, tied the score 10-10 in the top of the ninth

Keltner then stepped to the plate and rapped the first pitch over the wall for the two-run blast which gave Cleveland its margin The veteran third baseman also clouted a single and double while rookies Larry Doby and Lou Ratto had two bingles apiece to lead the Tribe's 14-hit spree

Hank Greenberg, who has not decided whether he will sign a Cleveland contract rapped a long double to pace the Indians' 'B' squad to a 6-4 decision over University of Southern California yesterday It was Hank's initial 1948 performance at first base

The Tribes first-stringers were slated for another exhibition against St Louis today Bourcreau named Les Webber, a semi-pro hurler last year attempting a comeback, and relief star Ed Klieman to take the mound

SPORTS ROUNDUP

by Hugh S Fullerton Jr

NEW YORK, March 23—Peppery little Mike Peppe, Ohio State swimming coach, predicts that his team will win the National Collegiate A A team title this weekend by at least ten points, if the Bucks' Bill Smith is ready and right That seems to be a fairly safe prediction, since rival coaches are virtually conceding Ohio State a clean sweep in the fancy diving events But it still is a radical departure from the tearful tradition of coaching Amateur Chuck Kocsis and pro Skip Alexander have been nominated by a vote of ex-champions in their fields as the most capable players not previously invited to play in the Augusta Masters golf tournament One American Association ball club reports it has improved quarters for umpires by purchasing new chairs—adding pointedly, "lockers"

IT HAPPENED during a spring football scrimmage at the University of Florida A player failed to get up after a play and the quarterback called across the field, 'Hey, coach, send us a halfback" The coach, unable to identify the casualty as a right or left half, asked, "What kind?"

In unison three voices came out of the huddle "A good one"

By The Associated Press

Peterson teamed with Howard Fox a week ago to set the Senators down 9 to 2 while allowing nine hits

Second baseman Bobby Adams who hit safely four times in six was charged with three of the errors two on one play He batted in one run however, and one hit was a double

Frankie Baumholtz named by manager Johnny Neun as one of the season's regulars drove in two runs He got a double and a single in five appearances at home

WILL MAKE EFFORT TO CUT CAGE SEASON

By The United Press

COLUMBUS, March 23—H W Enswiler, Ohio high school athletic commissioner, said today that an effort will be made this spring to shorten future regular basketball seasons to 18 or 20 games

He said he had sounded out many coaches and school administrators on the subject and they agreed generally that the present seasons are running too long by the time the state tournament is run off

The state tourney this year will extend through April 3, the weekend following Easter because of a reluctance to hold the games during holy week Many county tournaments were started this season as early as Feb 16

Enswiler said the State High School Athletic Board of Control would make a definite effort this spring to issue a referendum for a vote among the athletic association's 1,160 member schools on the issue

He said the shortened season if recommended could not be put into effect until the winter of 1949-50

MIZE LEADING KINER IN CIRCUIT CLOUTS

By The Associated Press

STOCKTON, Calif, March 23—What happens when the regular season starts is an entirely different matter but so far Johnny Mize is leading Ralph Kiner in home runs

Mize of the New York Giants has smacked two one against Bob Feller with the bases full, while the only thing the Pittsburgh outfielder has driven out of the park is his shiny new convertible

The two wound up in a 51-all tie for the 1947 National league home run championship

New York Stock Quotations

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 23—Further profit cashing on the recent upswing restrained many stock market leaders today although assorted favorites continued to make a little headway.

The heavy senate vote for tax reduction encouraged bullish contingents. The rearmament outlook as a prop for industry still inspired some bidding.

Dealings tapered after a fairly active start. Fractional declines predominated near midday.

Ahead at intervals were Baltimore & Ohio, Southern Pacific, Sears Roebuck, Consolidated Edison, American Smelting, Westinghouse Electric, Dow Chemical and Johns-Manville.

Occasional stumblers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel Chrysler, General Motors, Goodrich, Woolworth, Douglas Aircraft, Schenley, Western Union, American Telephone, Anaconda, Eastman Kodak, Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Union Pacific, Texas Co. and Standard Oil (NJ).

NOSE EXHALING ADVISED

By The United Press

BOSTON—A self-styled "health expert," Godfrey Redriquer, 65, claims people would live longer if they exhaled through the nose. "The nose is not an intake. It is an exhaust for the airs of the body," he says. "We should keep our noses clean and constantly exhale with them."

I have my problems just the same as you do. Some people want me to deliver their paper one place, others want it in some other location. I try to please them all.

I am a little business man, in business for myself. I buy my papers at wholesale, paying for them each week, and sell them at retail, the difference is my profit and working capital.

I am the sole judge of whom to extend credit to.

If you don't pay me, I can't pay for my papers, I lose my profit, and become discouraged.

I collect each Saturday morning, help me by paying each week and should you not be at home at my regular collection time leave your money and card where I can get it.

Thanks,

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

Opportunities for higher education are increasing . . . A New York City high school has started a course in beer brewing.

* * *

The passing mark will be 3.2 and honors will be 90-proof. And fathers are not supposed to help with the homework.

* * *

While brewing for the board of education is a little irregular, the feeling was that the schools were not producing enough men of distinction.

* * *

Attendance at the opening week of school was good and not a single student played hiccy.

* * *

I don't know whether that was because the course is interesting or because the truant officer carries a bung starter.

* * *

But the schools have changed a lot since debating was considered a daring innovation.

The fly's eye is a mosaic of 400 "simple" eyes each seeing only a tiny part of an object.
